TWELFTH DAY OF THE SLICKENS CASE IN COURT.

The Engineers Step Into the Arena-They Describe the Gold Run Mine and the River.

The slickens case-The People vs. The Gold Run Ditch and Mining Company-was resumed at 9:30 A. M. yesterday, in the Superior Court, Judge Jackson Temple presid-

Continuation of the cross-examination of Wm. Gwynn (to Mr. Catlin)-On the Middle Fork of the American river, from its junction with the North Fork to a point called Searsville, in 1851, there were about 800

They would strip the top off until they came to the pay earth. This pay earth was the only material washed. The tools used were pick, shovel and horn. The surface and strippings were deposited in the most convenient places.

On Murderer's Bar was done in 1849, 1850 and 1851. There was, during this time, about eighty miners engaged in working the mines on this bar. The bar could not be worked on this bar. The bar could not be worked on this bar. The parameter of the could not be worked on this bar. The parameter of the could not be worked on this bar. The parameter of the could not be worked on this bar. The parameter of the could not be worked on this bar, and the could not be THE PRINCIPAL PART OF MINING until the water in the river became low. The debris from Dutch Flat would have to travel several miles before it would reach the dam of the Bear river ditch. The Bear river canal's dam is above Gold Run. The length of ditch from the dam to Rattlesnake Bar is about thirty-five miles. The water used in mining from this ditch empties into Antelope and other creeks, which emptied into the Sacramento river. The branch ditch that went to Rattlesnake would carry about 300 or 400 inches of water. The main canal was six or seven feet wide, and carried an immense amount of water. Ninety per cent, of the water from this canal never reached the American river. It is principally used now to irrigate the fruit orchards and vineyards of Placer county. The orchards and vine-yards are located on the side hills and flats. There are places where industrious men have collected debris where it had been mined out, and thereby made good soil, that produces by cultivation strawberries, fruits, etc. The banks of the American river above The hills were very abrupt. There are many points opposite Auburn where miners would work on the precipitous banks during the summer, throwing the dirt down from the the other branches of the American. In 1851 and 1852 there perhaps were 1,000 or more mining on the South Fork between Folsom and Coloms. The mining around Placerville in early times was in placer mines. In 1849 and 1850 the mines in that neighborhood were what were called dry diggings. There were no ditches in that section until in 1850 and 1851. Headtown greek was way with. 1851. Hangtown creek was very rich. The excavations in that creek were from three to fifteen feet deep. Claims were from twenty to thirty feet square. The mines near Auburn were generally from thirty to 100 feet square and very rich with heavy gold. THE DRY DIGGINGS

In the neighborhood of Auburn were virtually worked out in 1855. The population of the mines, generally speaking, began to decrease in 1855 and 1856. The hight of the deposit from the hydraulic mines along the Middle Fork will vary from ten to 80 feet in hight. Gold Run is 1,200 or 1,300 feet above the river. The width of the top of the divide between the Middle and North Fork is about twenty-five miles, across from Michigan Bluff. What we call the backbone of the Iron pipe and duck hose, with a metallic nozzle from one to two inches in diameter, were used. The cobbles from these mines were deposited into the river. The length of sluices varied from 100 to 600 feet in length, and were of various sizes. Sluice-forks were used to throw out the stones that became ledged. Putch oracle sheeped of Private or used to throw out the stones that became lodged. Putah creek abreast of Briggs' orchard has filled up considerably in its bed during the last twenty-five years. It takes a very high water for the Putah to go outside its banks. Twenty-four hours after the cessation of a storm the Putah creek runs down. Cache creek, being a much larger stream, takes from two to three days to run down. The Lewis toll road is constructed of adobe clay. This class of clay will not wash except where there is very strong current. This road since 1862 has been an open winter road, except when water is very high.

Re-direct examination (to Mr. Catlin)—I should judge the tailings in the mouth of Weber creek in 1870 were from five to ten feet. During heavy rains the short, steep ravines carry large amounts of water. The tule canal is inadequate to drain the tules during heavy water. The width of the excavations in Hampton creek were from 100 to

Mr. Hart here called J. L. Gould, Superwest of Canyon creek, and on the west side. The claim, I believe, is about fifty acres in extent. On the north it is bounded by the Gold Run Hydraulic Limited; on the south by the Indiana Mill and Mining Company; by the Indiana Mill and Mining Company; on the southwest by vacant ground, and on the east by the mill site and Canyon creek. It runs about 1,200 feet on the ridge—the limit of the claim—and it runs back about 1,200 feet up the creek. I only speak approximately; the distances are somewhere in that neighborhood. I pointed out the claim to Mr. Grunsky, Mr. Crosbie and Mr. Allardt. (No cross-examination.)

WM. HAMMOND HALL,

made by Mr. Bosche, who plotted the map roughly, and it was inked up by Mr. King. The whole was made under my direction. I have calculated the whole amount washed out of the Gold Run ridge. I visited it in 1879 first, and learned by inspection and in-quiry about the extent of the mines worked. The old washings before the recent bed-rock tunnels were run covered an area of about 500 acres, and the depth washed off averaged, to the best information I can get, about sixtyfive feet, which will make the total amount washed about 52,440,000 cubic yards. This is then turns and runs parallel with the ridge. [The map referred to was here introduced, and marked "Diagram, Hall No. 1."] The hill washing is in length about two miles Searsville, in 1851, there were about 800 along the ridge. The top of the ridge is miners. There were perhaps 3,000 during from 1,200 to 1,400 feet from Canyon creek. the year 1853. Taking in Negro Hill, Salmon I can't say how much higher the ridge is than Falls, Union Town, Coloma, Woods' Diggings and the other mining towns contiguous, there 400 to 500 feet. The inclination of the sides were perhaps 7,000 engaged in mining. During the years 1855 and 1856 the miners on Weber creek and its tributaries, I think, were about 3,000 in number. The debris coming down Cache creek is light and alluvial. The tule basin fills up from one to five feet with water from Cache and Putah creeks before the river water comes down. This water is my present knowledge. It is a very precipious of the ravine to the top of the ridge, with no intervening table lands. The creek was very precipious, I cannot estimate its fall from my present knowledge. It is a very precipious in continuous rise from the bottom of the ravine to the top of the ridge, with no intervening table lands. The creek was very precipious, I cannot estimate its fall from my present knowledge. It is a very precipious in continuous rise from the bottom of the ravine is very percipious. water from Cache and Putah creeks before the river water comes down. This water is discharged into Sutter, Miner's and Prospect sloughs. The body of water in Putah creek during the last year has run through the old channel near Davisville. Think that the filling in of Putah creek has been more during the last fifteen years than for the fifteen years previous. I think this is caused somewhat from the wash of soil that has been plowed and cultivated. Plowed soil will wash more with rain than natural soil.

Redirect examination (to Mr. Cadwalader)

—Think this basin was once a lake. I said Lichar Dickits was a mass of roughly-exeavated along the ridge, and gravel, being excavated along the ridge. Lisbon District was

Land. I had reference to its title. The margins of Babel Slough are similar to the banks of the Sacramento river, and were guite free from sand and gravel deposits.

THE GENERAL APPEARANCE Of this old mining ground was that of a ridge, the crown and body of which had been cut out, longitudinally, leaving a bank each side, with hills and rough places. The gen-The shafts or holes sunk on this bar were generally six feet square. The amount of earth containing gold, and which was washed, averaged from one-eighth to one-sixteenth of the whole bar.

side, with fills and rough places. The general generally six feet square. The amount of earth containing gold, and which was washed, averaged from one-eighth to one-sixteenth of the whole bar. This mining out had extended up the hill to the railroad line. That ridge originally extended past the railroad and over toward Dutch Flat, so that what I described is not all of the ridge that once existed there, in length. The ridge is south and southwest of the point where the railroad crosses. As to the amount taken out since the lower excavations of the point where the railroad crosses.

gan I had surveys made of the Indiana Hill, and the Cedar washings; from these surveys, the materials washed off orginally, and in the Indiana Hill and the Cedar Hill washings, were calculated. I have that memorandum in my office. The debris of these mines, so far as I know, could have escaped only into Cauyon creek. I only know as to the fact that dumps were made into Canyon creek by what I was told, and what I saw of the little dumps on the side of the creek, and the little tunnels running toward the creek, through the rim. Can't say definitely that there was no other place or d rection for the escape of the water and debris, but I saw no other, and I think I would have seen such had they been there. The appearance of the little tunnels generally was that of a very much dilapidated bole in the face of a gravel bank, with decayed timbers in the mouth or head, and some were caved in. At the lower points were piles in the cut of gravel and stones, like mining dumps, and I judged they had been placed there by the action of running water. I was so well satisfied of that, that I examined for no other evilences of it. I didn't examine all the pits. The whole ridge bears the appearance of one large pit. The little tunnels, or former open cuts, were many in number, as also the dumps, but I didn't count them. I was shown over the ground by a Mr. Caldwell, an old miner, more than by any other person. I think Mr. Gould returned to Dutch Flat from some place he had been after I made my examination. I met him there. I saw the utcome of the tunnel of the defendant's mine, but not the outcome of Canyon creek into the American river. This mine's dump is at the end of a tunnel, on the slope of Canyon Creek ravine. I understood that further down were under-currents to save finer gold, and so it may be that the dump continues down nearer to the mouth of the creek. The altitude of the dump, as I judged it, looking down from some 300 feet above it, was difficult to estimate. I didn't go to the mouth of the tunnel. To go to it there is a little mountain trail. The mountain slopes 30 or 40 degrees to the horizon. The dump went down directly to the bed of the creek. Witness, with a sheet of paper folded, showed about the slope of the hill and sides of the ravine.] Below the mouth of the tunnel I saw large bowlders, and not any great amount under Col. Mendell. Witness said it was a very correct map, and he knew it to be so. [The map was filed in evidence, and marked "Diagram, Hall No. 2."]

Mr. Gould recalled—There are two tracts of land belonging to our company. When on the stand before I described only the most conthesize. The other is north up the can southerly. The other is north, up the can-you about 2,000 feet. They do not ad-join. Between them there is the Gold Run Hydraulic Limited. It is about fifty acres.

me. The Gold Run mining district lies on a ridge between Gold Run and the North Fork of the American river. On the southeast slope lies the ridge of gravel deposits which have been mined. At the base of this ridge flows Canyon creek. The ridge has been largely mined out; large excavations and vertical banks are visible. Evidently the body or center of the ridge has been taken out. The gravel deposits still show on the sides. The excavations extended two and a half miles long and from one-quarter to one-half mile in width. Canyon creek, below the washed about 52,440,000 cubic yards. This is exclusive of the washings recently carried forward, and which go to a greater depth. I examined the location of the ridge as to Canyon creek. The ridge runs in a southwesterly direction from the railroad crossing to about a half a mile beyond the town of Gold Run. The Canyon heads further to the east, and runs to the ridge, and then turns and runs parallel with the ridge, the ridge is, generally, where I saw it on the

the tunnel, the mouth of which lies in about the center of pit No. 1. By this they are carried to Canyon creek, and thence to the American river. In looking into the excavation you will see, near the surface of the ground, that it is red, and near the bed-rock it is blue or slaty. These hard and soft rocks are cemented. Near the surface there is less cement, and the material is lighter in character. The deep mining pit (No. 1) had a rimextending up to the level of the original rim extending up to the level of the original surface mining. Above it was another rim about 400 feet above the bottom of the pit. I saw no other means of discharge than I described. The deepest portion of the main pit was below the surface of the rim, and so no material washed therein could go elsewhere than out by the tunnel. At the mouth of Canyon creek the river flows in a narrow channel with rocky sides and bottom, with large cobbles and small bowlders, up to the size of one foot or one and a half feet, and even larger. With these finer materials are mixed in moderate quantities. Immediately above the bed deposits river on horseback. I found in the first sec-tion, from Canyon creek to Iowa Hill trail I refer from my notes made at the time and immediately after my return to Sacramento), which section is two miles long, deposits which extend from side to side of the channel, and water-washed rock in the bed. The river has apparently a uniform slope. The deposits consist of gravel and sand, such as may be expected to be found in bends of the river or below large projecting rocks. In some places are bars of large cobbles, which appear to have been placed there by the water before mining was commenced. deposit in this section contains 786,000 cubic yards. The next section is three and seven-tenth miles in length, and the river bed is composed of gravel and small cobbles. In this section I estimate the deposit to contain 1,266,000 cubic yards. The average greatest depth is fifteen feet. From Stevens' to Rice's bridge, one and eight-tenth miles, it becomes shallower. Here the water flows smoother and riffles disappear. The deposit in this section has a maximum depth of twelve feet, and the deposit is about 436,000 cubic yards.

I judge of the depth of these deposits from those places where there was little or no deposit. I estimated distances by the length of time it took to travel from point to point and judged of the width by the eye, Below Rice's the river flows through a comparatively steep, rocky canyon; that is, it is steeper than above it. This canyon begins about 500 feet below Rice's bridge. In this canyon the river flows over a rocky bettom, sometimes in riffles and sometimes in pools. The distance to the foot of the canyon is two and a half miles. Deposits from mining are very slight, and were not estimated. Section 5, about two miles from the last canyon SHIRT TAIL CANYON.

and increases near the lower end, and at f many points are soil-covered rocks and trees at the very edge of the gravel bars. Saw trees imbedded in recent deposits and apparing as if they had grown through them; but they were dead—had been killed by rising of the bed. Recent filling of the channel for this section I estimated to be 15 feet.

That the witness had shown he was not qualified to testify further on that subject. Prosecution thereupon proposed to give witness, as a proposition, certain materials and ask in the state the effect of water in a stream at a given velocity upon them.

The Court held that it was unnecessary, as the deposition of the bed water in a stream at a given velocity upon them. a distance of nine and five-tenths miles. The as to what may or might be. of parts of the banks left standing, and some of the hills left, and on information given by those familiar with the original surface. I think an estimate ten feet greater would be considerably in excess. Afternoon Session.

Mr. Hall recalled and identified a map of the American river from the mouth of Alder creek down to the Sacramento river, and including the vicinity of Sacramento. It was made in his office, and was the result of his joint surveys with those of the United States under Col. Mendell. Witness said it was a very correct map, and he knew it to be so. [The map was filed in evidence, and marked]

The filling here is not greater than to be expected if no mining existed. Deposits there are small. Average width of stream at low water, seventy-five feet. What little filling is seen is in the nature of quicksand. This section is 1.4 miles. Section No. 8 is from this canyon to the Middle Fork of the American and found the water flowing near the south bank. On the morth side was a sand-bar several thousand feet long and four or five feet deep. Subsequently in found that the river channel had changed to the opposite bank, and the positions of the sand-banks were changed. One bar had been washed out on the north side, and another formed on the south. The first observation was made January 9, 1879. The Gravel deposits in the hills and ridges along the river are here more extensive, and many of them have been considerably mined. Deposits in the river apparently in several cases are very extensive, but are probably not of great depth. Large bowlders, from twelve to fifteen inches, lie in the bed at different points, from side to side, where the width of the stream is great. Thanking Mr. Gates for the information, our searcher after facts called in at the popular German drugstore of Messrs. "The best proof of its popularity," continued Messrs. H. & S., "is the almost incessant demand. It is selling like hot cakes, and we have to order supplies almost daily. Since I have been in the employ of the State Engineering Department my study and experience has been confined almost exclusively to hydraulics—the examination of rivers and streams.

Witness here explained the rules of estimating velocities of streams, and was examined as to the material carrying capacity of flowing water. He said he could not estimate the amount the river would carry of sand and slickens, because the conditions are so varying, and he is not informed as to the elements in any given quantity of water. He said he did not recollect a theoretical principle or rule by which the size of a cobble just moveable by any velocity of current could be determined, but from his experience and observation he could state what he had seen moved by rivers. A HARD NUT TO CRACK.

Now that the Southern question is in a fair way to settlement through the adoption by Republicans of Democratic doctrine in that part of the country, leisure will be afforded to consider the Mormon Piaces of observation.

Piaces the Pacific slope, and that they are planting colonies in Idaho and Montana with this end in view. We cannot go as far as this with Governor Neal. We are not afraid that the Mormons will ever be strong enough to obtain control of the Pacific slope, though it might be too much to say that they would not do so if they had the power. It is, however, plain enough that the increase of this people cannot be regarded as the growth of an American community, and this is serious enough. The Mormons are virtually a foreign organization, and a foreign organization of a very 5-per cent. United States bonds, extended, 1051; 4s, undesirable character. As to what has been so often said about their industry and thrift, in the first place it has been exaggerated, and in the second place there is thrift which are devoted to the establishment of a gross and degrading superstition, entwined with a social system which is incompatible with any progress in civilization, and a political system which is more in conflict with democratic ideas than the most bigoted Ultramontanism. Industry and thriftgare good things when they are the agencies of worthy objects. Industry and thrift as displayed by the victims of slavery, however, are mockeries, and the Mormons are in many respects little better

The system of proselytism by which their numbers are recruited, is such as to winnow from the population of Europe the least desirable elements. Mormon Two women were burned to death yesterday at proselytes must be fools, to begin with, if they believe the despicable nonsense preached by the Mormon missionaries. If they are not fools enough to believe that stuff, then they are allured by the prospect of indulgence in animal sensuality held out to them. They are as a rule men and women of a very low order of intelligence, and fitted therefore to become the dupes and thralls of the band of shrewd knaves who rule the Church. and who in virtue of their authority appropriate to themselves all the plums in the porridge. The Mormon immigration consequently is a most undesirable element. and even if Mormonism was abolished it would continue to be a clog upon national progress because of its mental inferiority. There is, in fact, no single reason why Americans should look upon the Mormons as almost to compel the conclusion that he with favor or satisfaction. GAS STOVE!

MUCH COMFORT, WITH ECONOMY, IS gained by heating your office or bedroom—where there is no fireplace, or even if there is—with a GAS STOVE. Our climate in winter gives us generally pleasant days, but cool mornings and evenings, somewhat damp. The use of a GAS STOVE for an hour, morning and evening, is all that is required. The expense is trifling; the trouble, care or danger none. No ashes or dust covers your furniture; no wood or coal to pack upstairs. The fire is always at hand by lighting a match, and put out by turning a cock, and the combustion of the gas and air, so perfect by our improved burners, that no disagreeable odor arises, nor is the air in the apartment vitiated. Send to the office of the CAPITAL GAS COMPANY, and order one put up.

REVIVAL SERVICE .- In addition, or in connection with the revival services in progress at the Calvary Baptist Church, which are Messrs. D. W. Whittle and James McGranahan, the revivalists will arrive from the East on this morning's train, and will hold a series on this morning's train, and will hold a series of meetings in this city. At a meeting of the Pastorial Association of this city, held yesterday, the following arrangements were made: The singers of the different congregations are to meet with Mr. McGranahan in the Seventh-street M. E. Church to-morrow evening for rehearsal. On Sunday there will be a meeting of the Christian workers of the city in the Congregational Church at 9 o'clock A. M; also at 3 P. M.; and a general public meeting in the evening at 7 o'clock. During the week there will be meetings each public meeting in the evening at 7 o'clock.

During the week there will be meetings each day but Saturday, at 3 P. M. in Calvary Baptist Church, and at 7 in the evening in the Congregational Church.

Thou shalt not kill." Ought to read in his case, "Thou shalt kill." He became exceedingly violent, and refused to discuss that matter at all. There was no murder in his case, and no killing. It was simply for the jury to determine whether or not his act of removing the President was inspired by the Deity or not. It was all nonsense to split hairs any longer over that word. It must be distinctly understood that the removal of the President was the act of the Deity.

Witness proved decidedly obstinate, and after fiatly contradicting the testimony of Senator Logan, Colonel Reed and several other witnesses, he positively refused to answer several questions, his vely refused to answer several questions, his are invariably being "I decline to discuss that QUICK-WITTED AND SHREWD. Guiteau's shrewdness in detecting and anticipating any point which might be made against him, was a marked feature of the investigation.

Judge Porter pressed him very closely to fix the day when he received his alleged "inspiration" to remove the President, and Guiteau finally shricked out, "To remove all this loose talk I want to say that no personal motives whatever were involved in the act." Then, fearing that some trap was being set for him, he hesitated a moment, and then said with great emphasis: "I want to just fasten you solid right here. I would not have taken the Paris Consulship after the list of June if I had been appointed to it, and the President and Secretary Blaine had both beseeched me on their knees to take it. I had at that time resolved to remove the President found till 8 o'clock this morning.

Cruelly Murdered. r the good of the American people."

Afternoon Session.

After recess Guiteau resumed the stand, looking After recess Guiteau resumed the stand, looking very haggard. He had no special purpose in using some flattering words to Blaine. "I simply made a suggestion to him in the case. He was assisting me in getting the Paris Consulship. I should feel bound if he was a candidate at the National Convenbound if he was a candidate at the National Convention to assist him. That's the way we do in politics. Judge, understand that that is the way politicians get on. You tickle me, I tickle you."

Question—Did you write President Garfield a letter, marked private, in which you said, "I intend expressing sympathy for you on account of the pressure that has been on you since you came to this city?"

this city?"

Answer—Yes; I wrote that letter. My idea was just this, to express my personal regard for General Garfield on account of the pressure on him for office, and that was what I meant by saying I considered him my personal friend. I sympathize with any President who has this enormous horde of effice-seekers at his throat. At the time these letters were written I had not the slightest conception of rewritten I had not the slightest conception of removing the President. If you want to bring those letters against me, that were written at a time when I had not the slightest conception of removing the President, then you are trying to do what you can't do, and will not do. (Banging the rail violently.)

hands and allowed Blaine to use the Presidency to destroy Coukling and Grant."

"Did you say to President Garfield that he would have no peace till he got rid of Blaine?"

The prisoner—Yes; and that was the way the stalwart and liberal papers all over the country talked. That was the way the Washington Republican and Gorham, and that kind of people, talked. Porter—Did you say Blaine was a wicked man?

The prisoner—Yes, because he was using President Garfield, who was a good man and a kind man, but a weak politician. Garfield just sold himself, body and soul, to Blaine. That was what General Graot himself said in his letter denouncing Garfield for selling himself out to Blaine.

Traveling a Luxury.

CHICAGO, December 1st.—A private car belonging to the Courtal Facific Railroad, and occupied by Mrs. J. C. Flood and daughter, arrived in this city over the Lake Fars Consulship.

The prisoner (excitely)—I told you that had nothing to do with the Paris Consulship. I want to race in the record of the paris Consulship. I want to race in the record of the paris Consulship. I want to race in the course of his further examination he said in relation to the time of the murder; "The belty seemed to be on my side and every one against me but there is a reat data better feel ng towards me than there was three or four weeks ago. In the course of his further examination be said, in relation to the time of the murder: "The Deity seemed to be on my side and every one against me; but there is a great deal better feel ng towards me than there was three or four weeks ago. Some of these bitter crank papers have been toming down wonderfully for the last three or four weeks. What they want is a change of heart. They want conversion. They want new ideas about the President's removal. Nothing but a change of heart will satisfy their diabolical thirst for blood. It is red. likely that the Deity will gratify them in their thirst for blood. They begin to see it, too, and they will see blood. They begin to see it, too, and they will see it more and more."

The prisoner having expressed a belief that the Deity protected him from the day he shot the President to this day, Porter said: "It depends more on whether the jury believe you."

The prisoner (excitedly)—What the jury is here to pass upon is, whether the Deity did the act or whether I did it on my personal account. And I tell you, further, I expect there will be an act of God to protect me, if it is necessary, from any kind of violence, either hanging or shooting.

THE SAYIOR OF HIS COUNTRY

THE SAVIOR OF HIS COUNTRY.

The prisoner asserted that his acts saved the Calveston, December 1st.—A News of the country from another war.

Porter—There would have been war now if it were not for you?

Guiteau—"I do not pretend that war was immediate, but I do say emphatically," and here he began to deciain in the dramatic manner and style of a stump speaker: "The bitterness of the Republican party was deepening hour by hour, and by two or three years at least the nation would have been in a flame of war. In the presence of death all hearts were hushed and dissension ceased. For weeks and weeks the heart and brains of the nation centered on a sick man at the White House. At last (and here the speaker lowered his voice so as to be almost unitelligible) he went the way of all flesh, and the intelligible) he went the way of all flesh, and the nation was in mourning. That is a paragraph from a speech I wanted to make two weeks 250."

He continued, resuming his natural tone, and apparently well satisfied with his effort: "It comes in very pertinent here, and I am glad I had a chance to deliver; "

Counsel asked the prisoner as to the necessity of requesting General Sherman to send troops to the jail to protect him for having obeyed the Deity.

Answer—I would have been shot and hung a hundred times if it had not been for the troops at the jail.

Q.—Any harm in that?

A.—That is a matter for the law to pass upon (impatiently). I will not have any more conversation with you on this sacred subject. You are making light of a serious matter. I will not talk about it. Going back to letters, Porter read that in which the prisoner stated that Garfield's nomination, election and "removal" were acts of God, and then asked, "Who nominated him?"

A.—The Chicago Convention.

Q.—Was that inspired?

The prisoner hesitated, and seemed about to dodge the question, when Porter stopped him with an im-of him. In his opinion the doctors killed the President. The acts of Jones and Mason, in attempting to kill him, were wrong, and they ought to be punished, unless they can show that they were inspired by the Deity.

Immense Excitement

SHERIFF'S SALE OF J. P. CILMAN'S STOCK.

The city merchants were on the spot early, each determined to take the prize, but when the gavel dropped, and the Sheriff sang out "SOLD TO Mr. J. T. GRIFFITTS," there was astonishment and consternation depicted on every countenance. They had missed their opportunity; they evidently thought that the Sheriff would sleep on it a little, and when the all-telling word, "SOLD," rang out upon the sharp frosty air, it sounded like a knell to departed hope. It seems unaccountably strange that the shrewd merchants of our city should have allowed the Court Receiver to pluck the prize from their grasp
